Read the passage carefully then do the activities.

I spent my childhood dreaming of the time when I could leave home and escape to the city. We lived on a farm and, in the winter especially, we were quite cut off from the outside world. As soon as I left school, I packed my bags and moved to the capital. However, I soon discovered that the city life has its problems too.

One of the biggest drawbacks is money - it costs so much to go out, not to mention basics like food and rent. Another disadvantage is pollution. I suffer from asthma, and at times the smog is so bad I am afraid to go outside. Then there is the problem of travelling round. Although I have a car, I rarely use it because of the jams. One alternative is to go by bicycle, but that can be quite dangerous.

Of course, there are advantages. In the first place, there is so much to do in the city, whatever your tastes in culture or entertainment. In addition, there are wonderful job opportunities, and chances of promotion are greater, too. Finally, if you like shopping, the range of goods is amazing - and what is more, shops are often only a short walk away.

Is life then better in the city? Perhaps it is, when you are in your teens or twenties. However, as you get older, and especially if you have small children, the peace of the countryside may seem preferable. I certainly hope to move back there soon.
